NEW MARKETING FIRM SEES SUCCESS IN FIRST MONTH OF OPENING

Things are really moving for NET Marketing Consulting Group. The full-service marketing consulting firm located just off Sand Lake Road in Orlando, Florida, has expanded its office space since opening its doors early last month.

Solidifying new relationships with clients in the medical, real estate, and restaurant fields are growing the company fast, at time when other firms are seeing little to no expanding business whatsoever. According to founder Nicholas Trimarche, the secret to NET's success lies in its innovative service offerings.

"We're delivering solutions that traditional advertising agencies can't... solutions that drive traffic, boost chatter, increase credibility, extend reach, convert exposure to ROI, and increase sales over time," he said. "They were created in response to how communication and the sharing of information is evolving online."

He goes on to say that his clients enjoy seeing the benefits of the firm's strategies, quantifiably, which is very important to their tightened budgets. "They know their marketing dollars are working."

New employees have been added to the roster to help the company service is growing clients base, and a new company website will launch by the end of September.
